becoming like a beast of the field to the biblical prophet Daniel. Nebuchadnezzar re-named Daniel Belteshazzar after the chief male deity of Babylon and called Daniel “the chief of the magicians,” which is just another way of calling Daniel the head Magi (Daniel 4:8-9). From this passage, it is clear that Nebuchadnezzar believed in holy angelic beings that he called Watchers. These beings called Watchers were the same ones that Enoch tells us were sent to instruct mankind at the dawn of time. Enoch also tells us that some of these Watchers rebelled against God and began to sin by engaging in sexual relations with mortal women. The horrible consequence of these unholy sexual unions was that they spawned a race of Giants that terrorized mankind and all other terrestrial life until the Flood.

After reading about the Watchers in 1 Enoch and the Bible, many are compelled to ask: “What archeological and historical evidence exists that supports the past presence of these Watchers on the Earth?” According to traditional views of the past, there is no compelling physical or intellectual evidence to support the idea that a race of angelic beings once inhabited the Earth and intervened in the affairs of men. Most archeologists tell us that nothing unusual happened in the past that would support the presence of a superior race of beings that interfered with humanity’s physical, intellectual, and spiritual development. However, if we view all the available evidence from a more objective perspective, this supposition of secular scholars can be proven false. Let’s begin our study by examining some of the real evidence that an alien super race visited the Earth in the past.

Did Extraterrestrials Visit Earth Before the Flood?

Finding sentient life anywhere else in our Universe other than Earth is a burning desire of many who wish to think “we are not alone.” Perhaps as a result of that desire or fear, there are millions of people who believe they have seen UFO’s or that some people have been abducted by aliens. This unsettling mania over extraterrestrial visitations is increasing. It is as if we were being prepared to face a very real (but far less benevolent) “close encounter of the third kind” at some point in the future.

Chapter Four: The Corruption of God's Truth Before The Flood

Many of these alien abductions and UFO sightings have a paranormal quality to them. This would suggest that the agencies causing these phenomena aren't extraterrestrial visitations from outer space at all, but clear signs of demonic activity. Demons are masters at creating illusions designed to deceive gullible humans. They can appear as our dead loved ones or as ghosts haunting houses. By these clever deceptions, demons give people the impression that the spirits of dead people are closely connected with the world of the living. However, Yahshua's Parable of the Rich Man and Lazarus teaches us that there is a great division between these two states of existence (Luke 16:19-30). This parable teaches that the dead can't contact or visit the living unless God wills it to happen as when Samuel's spirit appeared to King Saul (1 Samuel 28:7-9). We will discuss the further implications of this parable in Chapter Fifteen.

If demons can pretend to be our loved ones who have died, they can certainly pretend to be beings from another world. In fact, it is highly likely that UFO sightings and alien abductions are psychologically induced hallucinations that Satan uses to deceive the ignorant. Even if these beings from beyond were not demons and proclaimed a message of peace and brotherhood toward mankind, their ultimate purpose would necessarily be demonically inspired and doomed to failure. For the Bible declares that our Salvation is through Yahshua the Messiah alone and not through any technologically advanced messengers from outer space. Even though they might exhibit what to us may seem as great benevolence and supernatural power, these beings would be a type of antichrist, setting the world stage for the destruction of all the ungodly.

Yet evidence exists in Ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia that there was an unusual surge in technological and scientific knowledge at around 3400 BC. Cultures there apparently went from Stone Age tribal farming communities to advanced civilizations seemingly overnight, with little or no developmental stages evident in any of the archeological strata. An excellent book on the subject is "Fingerprints of the Gods," by Graham Hancock. In it, Hancock points to the astounding abruptness at which this tremendous cultural flowering occurred in the far past. Advanced societies like our own, complete with a sophisticated government, refined religious mythology, and many artistic developments in writing, the arts and sciences, appeared fully developed at the very onset of these civilizations.

The same is true, to some extent, for the sophisticated societies that appeared in Mexico and Central and South America. Despite archeological claims that the oldest of these sites are from around 1500 BC, there is reason to believe that some of these cultures, especially that of the Olmecs, are considerably older. The Olmec civilization predated the Mayan culture and is considered the oldest native civilization in the Americas dated to no earlier than 1500 BC. However, the beginning date of the Olmec calendar is set to 3117 BC. This fact makes me entertain this question: “why would the Olmecs begin keeping time at a date so remote into the past from their own? Wouldn’t it be more logical to start their calendar at the date when their civilization began?”

What could have caused this tremendous surge in culture, science and creativity at that remote epoch? Many scholars have entertained the idea that aliens from another world have visited Earth and tampered with our normal evolutionary development. Some ascribed these powerful beings with the ability to genetically alter mankind to be stronger and more intelligent. Some also attribute these alien beings with introducing fully developed forms of agriculture, science, mathematics, and astronomy to humans who had previously been living as predominantly nomadic Stone Age hunter-gatherers. They are also said to have had much to do with the development of religious beliefs and mythology all around our world. According to scholars like Zecharia Sitchin and Andrew Collins, much archeological evidence seems to suggest that this was indeed the case. They claim that the ancients had technological abilities that were equal to and even superior to our own at one time. Yet they also claim that many of the greatest advancements in human knowledge did not originate with mankind, but with aliens from another world or realm. Are these scholars right? Could aliens from elsewhere in our Universe have invaded Earth and forever changed our history?

Though something very unusual appears to have occurred in the past to speed up humanity’s knowledge in the arts and sciences, it did not all have to be due to some outside stimulus. Contrary to modern thought, there is evidence that our Stone Age ancestors were not primitive savages. In fact, the Bible makes it clear that human beings were farmers like Cain or keepers of domesticated animals like Abel by the second generation from Adam and Eve. Furthermore, people were building and living in cities within the third generation (Genesis 4:17). This indicates that the first humans were intelligent enough to work out many aspects of higher civilization within a few hundred years of their creation. However, there does seem to be a point when these civilizations took a giant developmental leap forward. In short, our ancestors went from living in simple towns constructed of wood, reed, and mud-brick to building heavily fortified cities with fired bricks and finely worked stone almost overnight. In the same way, simple shrines and chieftain's huts gave way to palaces and temples. What could have caused this unusual upsurge in art, science, and technology?

The Real Aliens Who Came From Heaven to Earth

As already shown, a group of powerful beings not of Earth did originally come and settle on our planet prior to the Great Flood of Noah. When these angels called Watchers did, they brought many seemingly wonderful and benevolent gifts of knowledge and technology with them. Furthermore, this alien knowledge greatly advanced the level of technology, medicine, science, and astronomy that humans had already devised on their own. Furthermore, they took human wives, and through them fathered a race of beings known as the Nephilim. The biblical account of the Nephilim children of the fallen angels is short and tantalizing:

“There were giants on the earth in those days, and also afterward, when the sons of God came in to the daughters of men and they bore children to them. Those were the mighty men (i.e. giants) who were of old, men of renown. Then the LORD (Yahweh) saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every intent of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually.” - Genesis 6:4-5 (NKJ)

Here, the fallen angels are to be identified with “the sons of God.” In Job 1:6 and 2:1, these “sons of God” are clearly identified as angelic beings in the King James Version of the Bible. Though the Bible tells us that godly men can also be called “sons of God,” the application of the term to humans appears only in the Greek phraseology of the New Testament, never in the Hebrew and Aramaic phraseology of the Old Testament. Furthermore, we are told that these biblical giants, or mighty men were the result of the unholy marital unions between the sons of God and the daughters of men. Since unnaturally large giants were born from these unions, we can infer that these sexual relationships created a race of beings significantly unlike the women they were born to. If these unions had merely been between the Sethites and Cainites as some scholars have postulated, the offspring of these unions may have been spiritually suspect, but otherwise unremarkable - just as unions between people of different faiths produce today.

As mentioned in Chapter Two, the fallen angels likely began to corrupt humanity with forbidden knowledge around 3400 BC. This date falls during the patriarchal reign of the righteous Enoch’s father Jared, and is about twenty years before Enoch was born in 3381 BC. The Book of Enoch tells us much about this time in history. It tells us that Yahweh had appointed special angels to watch over the Earth. This is why the antediluvian patriarch and prophet Enoch called them the Watchers in his writings. Though not all the Watchers chose evil over good, Enoch tells us that two hundred led by the fallen angel Semyaza fell into grievous sin. The first angel to come to Earth and sin, however, was the fallen Archangel Azazel, and he is identified as Satan in the Book of Enoch. This means that Azazel was the angel who likely tempted Eve in the Garden of Eden, and that he was also on the Earth afterward. However, the other fallen angels did not join Azazel in his corruption of mankind until about 600 years later.

All these fallen angels taught humanity things that were contrary to Yahweh’s Will, and antagonistic to the message God proclaimed to mankind through the Mazzaroth. People who were born innocent and peaceful were gradually led into sin with the false, and/or forbidden knowledge given to them by the fallen angels. Enoch reveals what this false knowledge was. It began with the evil wisdom that the fallen angel Azazel/Satan gave to humanity in such things as how to make war and weapons of war. Azazel also led people into a love of sensuality through the use of jewelry and brightly hued clothing to manipulate others with their beauty and comeliness:

“And Azazel taught men to make swords, and knives, and shields, and breastplates, and made known to them the metals of the earth and the art of working them, and bracelets, and ornaments, and the use of antimony, and the beautifying of the eyelids, and all kinds of costly stones, and all 2 colouring tinctures. And there arose much godlessness, and they committed fornication, and they 3 were led astray, and became corrupt in all their ways.” - 1 Enoch 8:1-2

In regard to the art of beautification, it was not so much the cosmetics and ornaments but the manipulation, sexual sins and promiscuity that using them led to that were evil in the sight of Yahweh. As for the “art” of war, the shedding of human blood outside of the tiny amount used for a Covenant ritual, and the actual taking of another human life was one of the most heinous sins engaged in by mankind.

Initially, the wars and aggression that sprang up between different people-groups because of the meddling of the fallen angels made living in heavily fortified cities essential. Prior to that, men must have lived in relative peace with their neighbors. Now, however, some people likely took sport in raiding and pillaging to acquire what they needed. As a result, those who sought protection from theft, murder and rape needed the protection of walled cities. In that regard, it is possible that the fallen angels, acting as benevolent “gods,” initially helped men to build these fortified cities. Thereafter, the fallen angels likely played at war along with their human worshippers, sending armies against cities controlled by other fallen angels that they saw as rivals preventing their ability to claim absolute power.

If this was not bad enough, Enoch's writing clearly suggest that the fallen angel Semyaza showed humans how to perform horrible experiments using genetic manipulation that could have produced the race of monstrous beings called the Nephilim. Semyaza was also credited with teaching the concept of magic. Magic and Sorcery are evil because they use gross perversions of spiritual principles, and they also call on demonic power to affect certain desired results. Magic is a form of manipulation focused on altering the circumstances surrounding an individual, or group of individuals, without asking permission from God.

Fallen Angels: The First to Teach Sorcery and Magic

Throughout history, and in every modern fantasy, Magicians, Witches or Sorcerers pretend to have God's authority, and perform manipulative actions on others without their fellow man's, or Creator God's prior consent, or approval. For these reasons, there is no such thing as "White Magic." All Pagan magical practices and rituals, regardless of their supposed purpose, are unquestionably evil, and are a terrible sin against Yah and mankind because they do not follow God's Will, or support His plan of redemption. If there is "White Magic" in the world, its only sources are found in the magical indwelling presence of the Holy Spirit within true believers, and the presence in the world of the guardian angels of those same believers. These good angels are the sole source of many seemingly magical acts that are actually holy, and Yah-ordained miracles.

As evil as magic and Sorcery are, however, the fallen Watchers found even more grievous ways to thwart Yah's plans for mankind. They did so by teaching humanity a perversion of Sacred Astronomy in the counterfeit called Astrology. The evil angel Semyaza (or Semjaza) was the first to do so, followed by several of his fallen colleagues:

"Semjaza taught enchantments, and root-cuttings, 'Armaros the resolving of enchantments, Baraqijal (taught) astrology, Kokabel the constellations, Ezeqeel the knowledge of the clouds, Araqiel the signs of the earth, Shamsiel the signs of the sun, and Sariel the course of the moon. And as men perished, they cried, and their cry went up to heaven..." - 1 Enoch 8:3

This knowledge given by the fallen angels was blatantly evil because it perverted every good thing that Yahweh had created.

Since it was morally wrong, and spiritually degrading, humanity shouldn't have had this knowledge (See 1 Enoch 16:2-4, 69:1-13). In fact, it is likely that this type of immoral, forbidden knowledge was what Azazel/Satan gave to Eve when he led her to eat the forbidden fruit. What Satan gave Eve was not uplifting and empowering knowledge, but the horrible destructiveness of sin! Satan led Eve to make the wrong choice, whereby Eve lost her Shekinah Glory covering. This made her physically naked, and made her feel shame for the first time. But did Eve ever repent of her sin? Contrary to Jewish folklore, the Pagan-riddled record of ancient history, and the odd preponderance of ancient cultures that consistently deified their human rulers, suggests that neither Eve nor Adam truly repented. Instead, they, and the first born of every generation after them likely deified themselves, and sought to be worshipped as gods - just as the fallen angels and Nephilim did.

This subsequently led to the further spiritual degradation of Adam and Eve's children at the hands of beings like Satan, who appeared as a god to Adam and Eve, and led them both to want his evil knowledge and power. It was therefore Satan, the other fallen angels, and their inhuman Nephilim offspring who incited and perpetuated the spiritual, moral, intellectual, and genetic downfall of mankind. As a result, the unsavory "gifts" to humanity given by the superhuman fallen Watchers and Nephilim ultimately led to the destruction of the Earth in the Great Flood.

Baalbek: Evidence of the Watchers Near Mount Hermon

A startling archeological find discovered at Baalbek suggests that the Watchers and/or Nephilim once inhabited the area around Lebanon's Mount Hermon. Baalbek lies in a high mountain valley that is located just south of Mount Hermon in southern Lebanon. In the past, the borders of the Kingdom of Israel may have extended this far north, making Baalbek part of Israel at one time. Three level and expertly worked monolithic stone blocks weighing an estimated 1200 tons each have been found at Baalbek that are fitted together underneath the foundations of a large ruined Temple Acropolis dating to Roman times. These stones are 63 feet long, thirteen feet high and ten feet thick. They are so immense and heavy that there is no possible way the Romans could have moved them.

The only ancient stone blocks that may rival the size of these at Baalbek are inside the Great Pyramid at Giza, hidden from view. Other smaller monolithic blocks are atop the largest found at Baalbek. These would have formed part of one wall of the original structure that was atop the platform. These blocks of stone are beautifully worked and appear to be fitted together in the same precise and unusual style to those in the Valley Temple and the Great Pyramid at Giza as well as high in the South American Andes at Machu Picchu, Tiahuanaco and Sacsayhuaman. In addition, it has been estimated that there are more stone blocks comprising the entire 15 million square foot platform at Baalbek than there are in the Great Pyramid at Giza.

Despite the advanced construction machinery available today, modern engineers reel under the thought of having to move such huge blocks of stone. Even if they could have, how could they then have lifted these huge stones the twenty-three feet required to place them on top of the underlying stone foundation? As a result, all of those who have investigated the size and layout of these stones at Baalbek are at a loss to explain how the architectural engineers of ancient times could have done so. For this reason, some have suggested that the Nephilim, the fallen angels, or aliens from another world created this immense platform of huge stone blocks for some unknown purpose.

The giant stone platform these stone blocks form may have served as the foundation for a now vanished palace or temple that, when standing, would have dominated the entire site. In fact, the high mountain valley called Baalbek may have been the original place where the Watchers landed on Earth when they left their holy (i.e. set-apart) abode elsewhere on Earth and in Heaven. After descending, each fallen angel took as many human wives as he wished from among the local human population (Genesis 6:4; 1 Enoch 6:1-2). Later, humans who worshipped the Watchers as gods may have built a temple to them where they had originally descended.

Long before Roman times, this site was known as Heliopolis or On - identical in name to the city in Ancient Egypt where the cult of the Sun god Amun-Ra was centered. There is also evidence that the Israelite Tribe of Dan may have controlled this sacred site when the kingdom of Israel still existed. The Danites built a temple somewhere in the northernmost part of Israel that was intended to replace the one in Jerusalem as the place where Yahweh was worshipped. This occurred when Israel split into two kingdoms: Israel in the north and Judah in the south. The Bible tells us that the Danites built their city called Dan over the ruins of the ancient city of Laish (Joshua 19:47; Judges 18:7).

Though the location of Laish is uncertain, it would have been in the northernmost part of Dan's northern land allotment in ancient Israel. This is certain since Laish figured prominently as a trading stop on the road to the great trade city of Damascus in ancient Syria (Judges 18:27-31). Some scholars place the city of Laish near to Baalbek and outside the geological boundaries of where modern archeologists have traditionally placed ancient Israel. However, if the idolatrous temple of the Danites was built in or near Laish, the city of Laish/Dan must have been within the borders of ancient Israel at one time. Ancient Israel therefore must have covered more land area at that time than most archeological estimates allow for. It may therefore have extended well past the northern border that Israel currently shares with modern day Lebanon.

After the erection of this idolatrous temple of the Danites, King Jeroboam of the Northern Kingdom of Israel made two images of a bull calf. He placed one image at a religious shrine in Bethel and the other was placed "in Dan," which was built over the ruins of Laish (1 Kings 12:28-29). This bull calf was likely identical to the one that Aaron fashioned in the Sinai wilderness for the Israelites (Exodus 32:2-5). Both calf idols were probably copied from Egyptian carvings of the black Apis Bull worshipped by the followers of Ptah in the city of Memphis. If the Temple of Dan was built at Baalbek, it was built on top of still older ruins that were likely already revered as sacred by the local population. The Bible calls this forbidden place of worship that the Danites built "the sin of Israel" (1 Kings 12:30; 13:34; Hosea 10:8).

The Tribe of Dan is often reckoned as evil because they built a place of false worship that was unauthorized by and therefore abominable to Yahweh. For this very reason, the Book of Revelation omits Dan from the list of the Twelve Tribes of Israel, replacing it with one of the two half Tribes of Joseph (i.e. Ephraim or Manasseh: Revelation 7:1-8). The sin of Israel was a multifold one entailing the use of household gods, a bull calf idol, and a separate, mostly non-Levite priesthood that used a forbidden Oracle to foretell the future (Judges 18:12-20; 1 Kings 13:33-34). But the biggest sin of Israel was in attempting to worship Yahweh at an ancient Pagan temple site that may have originally been built by the evil Nephilim or the fallen angels who spawned them!

According to the Book of 1 Enoch, the wayward angels who came to Earth via Mount Hermon, and lusted after women soon impregnated their human wives. Not long after, these women gave birth to a new race of superhuman giants that the Bible calls the Nephilim (Genesis 6:4). Most of the Nephilim were massive in size and strength, literally dwarfing men due to their incredible height (1 Enoch 7:3). These Nephilim were far stronger than any mortal man was. Unfortunately, the Nephilim were also innately evil, and they became a race of sorcerers and tyrants. As such, they were a terrible scourge upon the Earth that ate any kind of freshly killed flesh to satiate their immense hunger for blood (1 Enoch 7:4-7, 9:9-10).

Partly because the fallen angels did nothing to discipline or control their wayward offspring, the Nephilim found it easy to lead mankind astray. One way they likely did so was by demanding that subjugated people worship them as gods, fulfill their needs, and engage in sinful activities to please them. Because these Nephilim were violent by nature, those who displeased them probably were tortured to death, or executed without mercy. Concurrent with this, the Book of 1 Enoch tells us that the fallen Watchers also began to teach their human wives false scientific and religious beliefs that were gross perversions of the knowledge that the Watchers were originally commissioned to share with humanity (1 Enoch 69:1-13).

In their effort to pervert every truth, these fallen angels invented many false teachings such as witchcraft, magic, fortune telling through Astrology, and alchemy (1 Enoch 8:3, 1 Enoch 69:1-13). The fallen angel Azazel also taught men and women the art of seduction and the pleasure of sensuality (1 Enoch 8:1-2). Their selfish hedonism fostered the idea that nothing should get in the way of pleasure. The Book of Jasher tells us that this pursuit of pleasure at any cost even drove men to get their women to abort their unborn children so that the women would remain beautiful and unaltered by pregnancy (Jasher 2:20-22). This emphasis on sensual indulgence and physical gratification eventually led most of humanity into committing every sort of sexual perversion, and other types of sin, for the sake of enjoyment.

Perhaps the fallen angels' worst sin against God, however, was that they taught men to make weapons for war, and encouraged them to partake in every sort of violence. In fact, it was the fallen archangel Azazel (also called Lucifer, Abaddon, or Satan, and whom I identify with the Demiurge called Ildabaoth - the evil false creator god of the Gnostics) who led men to make war against each other (1 Enoch 8:1). This subsequent spread of violence angered Yahweh God so badly that He eventually sent the Great Flood to destroy the sinful antediluvian world.

Is Tiahuanaco the Mount Olympus of the Titans?

According to Greek Mythology, the Titans were gods. They are described in Greek literature as powerful giant beings that were human-like in appearance. However, the Titans were also described as having had long, powerful tails. Bipedal dinosaurs also had long, powerful tails that could be used as weapons, and acted as counterbalances to help these huge creatures hold their massive bodies upright. The Titans were said to have issued from the Earth goddess Gaia when she married then mated with her son Uranus, who was supposedly the product of a "virgin" birth. In addition, the Titans of Greek myth ruled the Earth before their supposedly divine, immortal children. The Titans' own supposedly divine children later defeated them, took over, and then ruled Earth from Mount Olympus, a mountain so high and steep that humans could scarcely scale it.

From ancient descriptions of Titan attributes, the Greek myths of the Titans may have been derived from even more ancient legends about the first race of Nephilim. The Book of Jasher suggests that these Nephilim were "rulers" over men. In addition, the Bible and the Book of Enoch indicate that the Nephilim were considered immortal, though they could be killed. Descended from divine fathers and human mothers like so many Greek gods and
